Why Auburn Should Have Southern Championship.

In a recent edition of the Atlanta journal Mr. Henry Thornton, of Atlanta, ceded the Southern Foot-ball Championship to Sewanee and North Carolina, but in course of his remarks made the statement that if Auburn had played either North Carolina or Sewanee, the victor of that game would have been the championship team. Still he gave Auburn third place, which would seem impossible according to the above statement.

Why he did not put Auburn on the same footing with Sewanee and Carolina we cannot understand.

Every one who has seen Auburn, Sewanee and North Carolina play, makes the same statement, that is, that Auburn is by far the best team of the three.

Mr. Thornton also stated that Auburn could easily score three times on any team in the South, which would infer that Auburn is the best offensive team in the South. We were handicapped in Atlanta by the fact that Georgia did not have the ball in her possession enough for Auburn to demonstrate her strong offensive work. As for Clemson it is needless to state that her work is by far inferior to that of Auburn. Both the Georgia players and the Alabama eleven back up this statement.

As we did not play either North Carolina, Sewanee, or Clemson, the only satisfactory way of deciding the championship is to refer to the scores made by each team against the same teams played, and which as you will see below, gives the Championship to Auburn by a large majority.

To prove Sewanee's superiority over North Carolina, we take the University of Virginia game, in which the latter scored 17 points against each team, but Sewanee managed to score 5 points on Virginia. Since Sewanee and North Carolina played a tie game, the Virginia game proves Sewanee stronger than North Carolina.

CAPTAIN MARTIN.

As to Auburn and Sewanee I will first take the games played with the University of Nashville, in which Auburn defeated the latter by a score of 28 to 0; Sewanee defeated them by the small score of 12 to 0.

The next game is that in which Sewanee defeated Vanderbilt by a narrow margin of 11 to 10. Vanderbilt in turn defeated the University of Mississippi by 5 to 0. Next the University of Mississippi met defeat at the hands of the University of Alabama by the score of 11 to 6. These scores put Vanderbilt and the University of Alabama on the same level. Alabama's crushing defeat at the hands of Auburn, to the sweet tune of 53 to 5, easily gives Auburn a margin of about 30 to 0 over Sewanee.

The final and deciding game referred to is that of Sewanee vs. Georgia, in which the latter was defeated by a score of 22 to 5. It is a well known fact that Georgia always plays her hardest and fiercest game against Auburn, but nevertheless Auburn administered a defeat of 44 to 0 to Georgia.

From the above scores it may be readily seen that Auburn is the victor over Sewanee, and they would not stand as much chance of winning in a game with Auburn, as the Techs. with North Carolina.

Auburn further proved her superiority over North Carolina by defeating the University of Tennessee by a score of 23 to 0, in two twenty-five-minute halves, against North Carolina's 22 to 5. Some may refer to the game between North Carolina and Georgia, in which the former defeated the latter by a score of 55 to 0, and thus endeavor to prove North Carolina's superiority. But we have authoritative information that the University of Georgia team was in no physical condition to play this game and in fact did not try to stop the rushes of their opponents, but only played the game to fulfill their contract for the game and for financial reasons.

That Auburn should have the championship can not be disputed, and we think that if Mr. Thornton had looked into the score problem more closely he would have given the Championship of the South to the deserving team, which is, without doubt, that of Auburn.

WHY WE DIDN'T PLAY SEWANE, CLEMSON OR NORTH CAROLINA.

It is a fact to be regretted that Auburn did not meet Sewanee this season, but as Sewanee declined to give us a game it cannot be helped. We challenged them several distinct times. There is only one reasonable explanation of their conduct and that is, that they were afraid of being defeated. This would surely have happened if they had met us.

It is true that Clemson tried to get a game with us but their application was received at such a time that it was impossible to schedule a game with them. Later, when we were in a position to play them they could not arrange to meet us, at least on such a date that we could fill. As to playing Clemson on December 8th. Well, in the first place we had no faculty permission. Moreover, we have proven to the public that Clemson's was not equal to our team, and we are not in the habit of prolonging our season for the purpose of giving games to weaker teams, where there is nothing to be gained by defeating them. If Clemson had benten Georgia something like 44 to 0, or the University of Alabama 53 to 5, playing the latter twenty-five minute halves, we might have considered a game with them, but under the existing circumstances there would have been nothing gained by defeating Clemson, except the result of further clipping the wings of Mr. Heisman, our former coach, but as we have already clearly outclassed his team, we are satisfied.

As for North Carolina, we have nothing much to say except that we offered them expenses to come to Auburn and play us on November 7th, but their schedule of games made it impossible.

PARK IS CAPTAIN FOR NEXT SEASON.

At a meeting of the old Varsity foot-ball team, held in the chapel on Tuesday, December 11th. H. B. Park was elected captain of the team for next fall. "Preacher" has been a steady and conscientious player for the last three seasons, and we are certain that with his superior knowledge of the game and his great love for the sport he will lead the team of 1901 to victory.

Auburn has been selected by the State committee as the place to hold the next Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of Alabama. The Convention will be held in the latter part of March, just after second term examinations. This convention brings together each year a band of about one hundred men, composed of both the student and the graduate leaders of the greatest social, athletic, moral and spiritual movement in this State, besides strong leaders and speakers from other states.

Auburn feels honored that she has been selected as the place for the next Convention. Birmingham and Selma invited the convention to gather at these places, but the State Committee saw fit to accept Auburn's invitation.

When Secretary Long named a big battleship after little Rhode Island, and only a little monitor after Connecticut, the whole nutmeg state rose up in revolt, so "Connecticut" was erased from the stern of the little monitor, and "Nevada" substituted. Connecticut isn't left for this year, though, for she has the Yale foot-ball team, which now holds the championship of the world, and is considered the best team ever gotten together.

President Hadley of Yale, speaking at Vanderbilt University's quarter-centennial, said, "Speaking broadly, lectures do a great deal less good than popularly supposed. The work of diffusion of learning is mainly done, and on the whole better done, by the printing press.

"It's not birth, nor wealth, nor state,
But 'git up and git,' that makes man great."

In her four games this last season, Auburn has scored 148 points to her opponents' 5.

MANAGER NIXON'S WORK FOR THE TEAM.

Mr. Henry Thornton, of Atlanta, in an article in a recent issue of the Atlanta Journal, said, that a foot-ball team's rating and standing depended largely on the manager, and it is true. He also said that Auburn would very probably have been the undisputed champion of the South if her manager had arranged the proper schedule of games, and blames Manager Nixon for not having a game with either Sewanee, Clemson, North Carolina, or Virginia.

Now, Mr. Nixon was not elected manager of the team until September 17th, at the first meeting of this session of the Athletic Advisory Board. Mr. W. J. Cameron had been elected at the proper time as manager, but when Mr. Cameron failed to return to college, another man who would necessarily be handicapped by having to take charge so late, had to be elected. This man was Mr. Nixon. As soon as he was elected Mr. Nixon went to work to perfect the plans for the season, and all of us who know anything about the management, know that the team was managed ably and successfully.

We would like to say something about the games we didn't play: At another place in this page will be found statements about our position in regard to Sewanee and Clemson, and it will be clearly seen by them that circumstances which determined whether there would be game or no game, were entirely beyond our manager's reach. North Carolina was challenged through Coach Watkins for a game to be played on November 7th, but they refused to play us, and an attempt was made to arrange a game with Virginia, but as the teams were such a great distance apart and neither team had games near the other's college, the game would have resulted disastrously to both, financially.

The management of the team for this year has been more than satisfactory, especially after considering the disadvantages under which Mr. Nixon took charge, and not only the team, but the whole college, is very grateful to Manager Nixon and Assistant Martin for their efficient services.

Thanksgiving Debate.

On Saturday evening, December 1st, the annual debate between the Websterian and Wirt Literary Societies took place in Langdon Hall. The subject for debate was, "Resolved, That the right of suffrage should depend upon educational and property qualifications." The Wirt Society, represented by Messrs. Conner and Lindrose, upheld the affirmative; while the Websterian Society, with Messrs. J. O. Webb and J. T. Letcher as its representatives, defended the negative. The debate was very interesting throughout, and at its close the audience were firmly convinced that there was more than one side to this important question.

Many strong points were scored by both sides. The Wirts argued that the right of suffrage was a privilege to be granted to those most likely to use it for the public welfare. An educational qualification, they claimed, would make a more intelligent class of voters and exclude those classes most susceptible to bribery; a property qualification would insure the direction of governmental affairs by men of industry and business training—men who would be able to administer affairs efficiently and economically and thus prevent the extravagance, inefficiency and corruption so common in American politics.

The Websterians, on the other hand, claimed that unrestricted suffrage was in keeping with democratic institutions. They stated that the property-owning classes were indifferent to the duties devolving upon them as citizens; and very often, as in the case of monopolies and trusts, the property of rich citizens was used to bribe our state and national law-makers. And again while such restrictions as property and educational qualifications might exclude many bad voters, it would by no means exclude all of them, and at the same time many good voters would be excluded.

At the conclusion of the debate, the committee, consisting of Rev. J. B. K. Spain, Rev. J. C. Cloud, and Prof. G. W. Duncan retired, and, after due consideration, awarded the victory to the Wirt Society.

BASKET BALL BEGINS WITH A RUSH.

Feeling the need of an interesting sport to fill in the breach between foot-ball and base-ball, we have begun basket-ball. Basket-ball is strictly an American game, and is the most popular sport in the United States, considering the fact that it is only eight years old.

It calls for the same moral elements, the same spirit of self-subordination as does foot-ball and base-ball. It may not call for the same amount of physical courage as foot-ball, but even a greater degree of self-control is demanded. It includes those features that make the other games so valuable, carefully avoiding their weaknesses, and hence its popularity.

We have already been asked for games by other teams, but we must first learn the game well, and get well organized teams. All the playing before Christmas will be in a manner unorganized, but immediately after Christmas, when we have learned the game some better, and have seen who can play well, we will organize several teams, possibly by classes, companies or some other way. We regret that all the men who want to play cannot be accommodated. For the next few days, we will play by sections, each section playing twenty minutes, and in this way we can accommodate three sets of twelve men each, making a total of thirty-six in an afternoon.

Captain Martin's Response.

We give here a copy of the speech made by Captain Martin at the Foot-ball Banquet. The Orange and Blue's stenographer took the speech down as it was thought—not as it was spoken. These thoughts fell from his hands, not from his lips, and they were found on the floor after the banquet:

Ladies and gentlemen, and members of the Varsity and Scrub: I wish to express my sincere thanks to the members of the team for their hearty co-operation throughout the season, you have at all times worked faithfully to uphold and defend our college colors on the gridiron. I also wish to tender my thanks to the scrubs for turning out so well, and thereby assisting the Varsity so materially. And last, but by no means least, I want to thank the Faculty for their support throughout the season, and especially our beloved Prof. Kyser for his untiring efforts in handling the scrub team.

With the combined efforts of all these factors, we have been able to turn out one of the most successful teams in the history of our college athletics.

You all know the results of the games. We demolished Nashville, we did the same thing for Tennessee, we gained the championship of Alabama in Montgomery, and by an impartial criticism we won the championship of the S. I. A. A., when Georgia met her Waterloo on Thanksgiving. In conclusion let me say again, I thank you all—team, scrubs, Faculty and cadets—for your hearty co-operation during this—the season of 1900.

IMPORTANT

Meeting of Athletic Advisory Board.

MANAGER NIXON MAKES HIS REPORT

"Billie" Williams Elected Foot-Ball Coach for Next Season.

The Athletic Advisory Board held an important meeting Friday, Dec. 8, in the Agriculture room. Manager Nixon made his report of the foot-ball season's management. He reported the total amount of money taken in during the season from the various sources as $969.93 and the total amount paid out as $948.68, thereby leaving $21.25 in the treasury of the Association, surplus.

The season has been a success in every way. Besides the money balance that is left, Manager Nixon turns over a lot of uniforms, etc., many of which are almost as good as new, which cost $135.00, to the board for use next year. After Mr. Nixon's report was read and accepted, the board tendered to him a vote of thanks for his efficient, careful and economical management.

AN ALUMNUS FOR COACH.

The board then took up the matter of electing a foot-ball coach for next season. After some discussion of the possible men, the members unanimously elected Mr. W. M. Williams, '96, who is now studying law at Harvard. "Billie" as he is familiarly known here, was one of the best half-backs that ever played on a Southern team, and we are confident that he will turn out the best team next year that Auburn has ever had. He will feel natural mixed up in the whirl of foot-ball on the old Auburn gridiron, for he "has been there before" in the capacity not only of a player, but as a coach, for he coached the "scrub" in '98.

PROF. KYSER TO S. I. A. A.

Prof. H. H. Kyser was elected by the board to represent it at the annual meeting of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, to be held in Oxford, Miss. on Dec. 21st, 1900. If Prof. Kyser cannot go himself, he is authorized to appoint the representative who can.

THANKS THE FACULTY.

Upon the suggestion of Mr. Nixon in his report, the board instructed its secretary to express in writing to the Faculty its thanks for the courteous and lenient favors which that body has shown the team during the season.

Wirt Society Notes.

Usually, the societies are well attended at the first of the year and then the "new wears off," and the boys lose interest, but a decided improvement is noted this year, and the societies have continued to improve, since the opening of College.

TO MY LOVE.

Light of my eyes, you're a goddess in dimity,
Just to be near you is blessed proximity,
Though it disturbs my avowed equanimity,
Causes me many and turbulent sighs.
Charming to me is your happy vivacity,
Tinged with a winsome and merry audacity,
Which you employ with a wondrous sagacity;
Oh! you're adorable, Light of my Eyes!

And the felicity
Of your simplicity,—
If a man miss it, he Misses a prize.
Suitors all throng to you,
Honors belong to you;
I toss a song to you,
Light of my Eyes!

Queen of my Heart, you're a woman imperial,
Yet with the grace of an angel ethereal;
Dowered by Nature, 'tis quite immaterial
Whether or not you're indebted to art.
Though you are coy and demure as a shepherdess,
In your deep eyes glows the glance of a leopardess;
To rouse your spirit is certainly jeopardous;
Yet I would dare it, O Queen of my Heart!

Fatal vicinity
Of your divinity;
When a man's in it he Cannot depart.
Look not so terrified;—
Say, would you care if I'd
Make my works verified,
Queen of my Heart?

Love of my Life, if the times were Colonial,
Or if we lived as in old days Baronial,
I'd lead you captive in chains matrimonial,
For I would win you in chivalrous strife,
But, as it is, though I long for you yearningly,
I choose my time and my manner discerningly;
And if I woo you sincerely and burningly,
Say, will you smile on me, Love of my life?

Grant opportunity,
Then with impunity
I'll propose unity—
Ask you to wife;
Oh! tell me that if I
All your whims gratify
Our troth you'll ratify,
Love of my Life!

ination work, the Wirts will not have another meeting until the 5th of January and a full attendance is desired then.

Naturally, the Wirts are jubilant over having won the debate. The Wirts intend to refurbish and improve their Hall during the second term.

AUBURN HONORED.

Three Men on the All-Southern Team.

In the line-up of the All-Southern team we are proud to note the names of Harvey, Houston Gwin, and Yarbrough. That these men deserve the honor conferred on them is without doubt.

This team is composed of the crack-players of the South, and to note further, that Harvey, our famous tackle, is the captain of this eleven, causes our breasts to swell with pride.

We are all proud of you, boys, and extend to you our hearty congratulations.

The Georgia Boys Come to Town.

(Sung on Thanksgiving day before the game to the tune of "Yankee Doodle.")

The Georgia boys they came to town,

To play a game of ball, sir;
They stuck their colors on their coats

And thought they knew it all, sir.

Chorus.

Auburn, Auburn, Hurrah Boys!

Old Auburn's team's a daisy:
Today we're going to win the game,

And run old Georgia crazy.

And when the ball is put in play,
With Auburn's men behind it;

Then all the people there will say,
Old Georgia'll never find it.

Chorus.

Good Bye, Old Georgia, Good Bye.

(Sung on Thanksgiving Day after the game, to the tune of "Good Bye, My Lover, Good Bye.")

I saw those crackers go down the street,

Good bye, Old Georgia, good bye.

They looked so sad, they looked so cheap.

Good bye, Old Georgia, Good bye.

Chorus.

Bye Georgia, bye O.

(Repeat three times.)

Good bye, Old Georgia, Good bye.

U. of Ga., was their name;

Good bye, Old Georgia, Good bye;

They did their best to win the game.

Good bye, Old Georgia, good bye.

(Same chorus as before.)

We know it's hard to meet defeat.

Good bye, Old Georgia, Good bye.

But we never intend to let you beat,

Good bye, Old Georgia, Good bye.

Chorus.

Cry Georgia, Cry O.

(Repeat three times.)

Just cry, Old Georgia, Just cry.

When you go back, your people will say:

"Don't die, Old Georgia, Don't die."

We'll eat you again next Thanksgiving Day,

Don't die, Old Georgia, Don't die.

Chorus.

Cry Georgia, Cry O.

(Repeat three times.)

Just cry, Old Georgia, Don't die.

The Patent Leather Shoe
That Won't Break Thro'

Fit and wear, comfort and service—that's the story of Monarch Pats, the patent leather shoes that are different.

Long-lived shoes, because there's life in the leather; comfortable shoes, because they're made right.

Monarch Pats have cornered foot comfort. Wear them and you'll believe it. Monarch Pats head a family of great shoes in every leather.
